Species & Finishes

WHITE OAK is a time-honored favorite and popular in today's design world. It is a very hard wood with distinctive grain patterns and outstanding durability. It is offered in Quarter Sawn, Rift Sawn and Rustic Oak options. Rustic Oak can also be enhanced with wire brush distressing.

MAPLE is a hard, close-grained light colored wood that can accept light to dark finishes. Like all woods, maple will darken with age, but to a lesser degree than cherry. Maple is prone to take on a subtle mottled appearance when finished in the darker stains.

HICKORY is a heavy, dense wood that displays grain patterns and while it can have wide variation in color, the stain color you choose will moderate those variations. Hickory is a durable specie and will withstand the lifestyle of the most active family. It is suitable in any setting and is sure to please those who love the true wood look.

RUSTIC HICKORY provides the ultimate in dramatic contrast. It is perfect for a rustic cabin, or for that just right cozy feeling in any area of your home. Rustic Hickory displays visible knots, mineral, and color variation in the door, frame and end panel.

CHERRY is a very elegant wood with warm tones, and darkens as it ages. Cherry has a fine grain that often exhibits swirls and flowing random patterns that will be highlighted by a variety of stain choices for a truly rich appeal. Design elements compliment the wood tone and enhance its function. Cherry is available as a special order in the Classic EW line, and may add time to the lead-time of your project.

ALDER is similar to Cherry. The straight fine grain of alder makes it an attractive and economical choice for cabinetry in your home. The choices for accents, glazed finish, and mullion doors and moldings add the perfect decorative touches to your home cabinetry project.

RUSTIC ALDER displays visible knots, mineral, and color variation in the door, frame and end panel. The size, number and location of these characteristics will naturally vary. It is ideal for a rustic cabin or project design that calls for strong wood characteristics and for that welcoming feeling in any area of your home.

WALNUT is highly desired for its rich dark color that adds warmth and sophistication to any area. Well-known for its strength and durability, it also features a fine, tight grain with variations in color and flowing patterns.
